

MISS CROKER

By SIR THOMAS LAWRENCE.

SIR THOMAS LAWRENCE'S portrait of Miss Croker is one of the finest of his later achievements as a portrait painter, and it has been said of it that it will ever be admired as a beautiful picture of a lovely subject. It has been exhibited repeatedly in collections of masterpieces. Miss Croker, who was the sister-in-law and adopted daughter of the celebrated John Wilson Croker, was married in 1832 to George Barrow, who later succeeded his father as second Baronet of Alverstone.
